Dear Russell,

I am pleased to enclose a copy of the artwork which has won your Named Award for 2016. It has been another fantastic year for the Koestler Awards, with more pieces than ever being selected for exhibition by this year's curator Benjamin Zephaniah. Opening at the Royal Festival Hall with a private preview on the 14th of September, this year's exhibition We Are All Human features over 200 paintings, poems, sculptures and songs, and runs until the 13th of November.

I do hope we will see you at the private view on the 14th of September to thank you in person for your support of the Koestler Trust. This would also be a perfect opportunity to see the artwork which has received your Named Award, as I can very happily say it has been shortlisted for inclusion in the exhibition. With the exhibitor's comments on their artworks coming in we are receiving fascinating new perspectives on the pieces in the show, and where possible I have included on the enclosed image a sentence about the artwork assigned to your Named Award.

Again, thank you for all your support of the Koestler Trust, it is greatly appreciated. Please do not hesitate to contact me if you have any queries, and do let me know if you can make it to the Private View.

With best wishes,
